Coffee Roastery Dinzler

In addition to office and seminar rooms, this complex consists of a large restaurant with a spacious exhibition area and a coffee roaster, where visitors can watch the coffee roasting processes. Two thirds of the complex are covered with a green roof, the separate sections of which are interconnected and allow the building to melt into the surrounding scenery. The green roof creates a hill that disperses the building volume into the landscape and makes it possible for visitors to walk over the building. Above the green areas, rises a building with a saddle roof, which blends in with the typical architectural style of the area. By shaping the building according to the topography, interesting spatial situations and paths are created.
